Cami Fergus is a member of Farella Braun + Martel's Family Wealth practice, part of the firm's Private Client Group, where she assists clients with respect to creating revocable trusts and related documents, as well as more advanced gift and estate tax planning strategies. She is based in the firm's St. Helena office.

Cami has a deep tax background, providing tax planning, reporting, and dispute resolution advice on various state, local, and multistate tax matters involving income, franchise, sales, use, property, and excise taxes. Additionally, Cami has represented clients throughout the stages of state and local tax controversy, from state tax audits and administrative appeals through various stages of litigation. She has advised clients in the maritime, energy, telecommunications, pharmaceutical, oil and gas, healthcare, retail, financial services, transportation, and e-commerce industries.

Outside the Office

On Saturdays, Cami can usually be found at the Red Barn Store on Oak Hill Farm in Sonoma County, where her husband's family has been growing and selling sustainably grown produce and flowers for multiple generations. Otherwise, Cami spends her time exploring Sonoma and Napa counties with her husband, daughter, and German Shepherd.
