San Francisco: 415.954.4415

Nicolette Roger has a commercial litigation practice in a wide variety of matters, including class actions, product liability, investigations, bankruptcy, and arbitrations.

She has experience drafting direct and cross-examinations for lay and expert witnesses, motions and appellate briefs, legal memoranda, discovery requests, witness and attorney declarations, notices, subpoenas, and talking points. She has second-chaired numerous depositions of experts, 30(b)(6), and lay witnesses.

Nicolette maintains an active pro bono practice. She has represented asylum-seekers and volunteered at a tenants' rights clinic. During law school, she co-chaired the Removal Defense Project and represented individuals in immigration detention during their bond hearings. Nicolette has also represented migrant farmworkers in central California in wage and hour disputes.

Outside the Office

Nicolette is an avid Latin dancer, and especially enjoys salsa. Recently, Nicolette has also been learning how to design and sew her own clothes.
